

Last summer vacation, I went to Canada for English class. Although only went here for two months, I got a fantastic memory and experienced different culture.

When I arrived at the Toronto airport, I saw the foreigner in line quietly, it was a big difference from Taiwan, the airport in Taiwan is very noisy. This is the first difference I found.

And the picture below was Niagara fall. The scene there was the most spectacular I have ever seen. The scene in Taiwan are not that exaggerated but elegant.

In a sunny afternoon I went to a rib competition, people there can chat with other, enjoy the band and taste lots of different store's rib to choose one become champion. The picture was the scene that day. In Taiwan, few competitions' champion are decided by customers, and there are scarcely activities like this that people can enjoy the music and food leisurely.

I think the biggest cultural difference is I can see the homosexuality national parade in Canada. In Canada homosexuality's marriage can be recognized, so they are brave to fight for their right. In Taiwan , they are afraid to show their identity in public, they scared that if someone know they are homosexuality, they will be discriminated.

I think to experience the cultural shock is fresh and different culture really teaches me a lot, I have learned how to respect different kinds of people,culture and anything that are different from me.
