

I N D I A

First impression

First time when I arrived at India, I think that is a dirty and messy country with bad hygiene. I felt like I could not breathe; the air was not clean, and the sky was smoky. This is totally not what I expected. Just like what I saw on TV, lots of people climbed up to the trains, because there were few seats inside and they were usually very crowded. However, I found something amazing about India as I stayed on, people's sensitivity about color is rooted in their culture.

For example the cars on the street were very colorful. And there is one interesting thing called "Henna". People here use henna to draw on their bodies. And this brown paint create lots of unique patterns on human body seen as a form of art.

And I recommend you try henna at least once in your lifetime when you visit India. It will give you a unique taste of the Indian Culture.

Henna!
